the distance in 1:43 3-5. Oxford made all his own pace and won in a gallop, his perform ance being so impressive that the turf sharps are predicting to-night that he will be a hard horse to beat at Aqueduct on Monday. weight of public support made him an even money favorite, so that his riding was immensely popular. At the wire he had two and a half lengths over Buttons, 5 to 1, who in turn had eight lengths over J. E. Madden't Faust, 9 to 2. The latter was only a short distance in front of Peter Knight and Or monde's Right, the latter breaking slowly and McDaniel making too much use of him hereafter.

Madden won both of the two-year-old races with Servile and Senator Barrett. In the second event, for two-year-old fillies and veldings, maidens and winners of one race nly, four furlongs, Servile, who went up to only, four furlongs, Servile, who went up to 8 to 1, had plenty of speed and outgamed Ben Cole, 11 to 20 favorite, whom he defeated in a drive by a neck. Ben Cole, with Miller up, barely managed to beat Helen B, 4 to 1, by a head, with Clorious Betsy, 8 to 1, knocking at the door. With a better ride Helen B, might have won. The time was 0.50 1-5. In the third race, for two-year-old colts, four and a half furlongs, Madden's fine colt Senator Barrett, pounded down to 4 to 5, went to the front when Miller cut him loose and won in a wild drive by a length and a half from Marston, 6 to 1. Bob Callahan, Jr., 3 to 1, was a poor third. Bill Daly's Hartford Boy, 6 to 1, was again left at the post. The race was run in 0.57 2-5.

Joe Marrone, the New York contractor, put over a real good thing in the first race, for platers, at five and a half furlongs, in 1. Amour, a 30 to 1 shot, who, with McDaniel up, made a runaway of it and came home in a drive, two lengths before Akbar, 7 to 1, the latter beating Blue Dale, 8 to 1, by a head, Right and True, 3 to 5 favorite, who did not show his usual speed, was a head out of the money. The time was 1:10 2-5.

Lally, an even money favorite, with Miller in the saddle, was beaten a head by Cobleskill, 3 to 1, in the fourth race, for platers, at seven furlongs, the latter showing the way from the start. Jerry C., 6 to 1, who had too much weight, was a poor third. The time was 1.30 2-5.

Mammymoo, a 15 to 1 shot, proved a genuine 8 to 1, had plenty of speed and outgamed

Mammymoo, a 15 to 1 shot, proved a genuine surprise in the fifth race, seven furlongs, by making the pace from the far turn and winning in a romp by half a dozen lengths in 132. Canvas, a heavily played favorite, had early speed, but could not last, taking the place from Pins and Needles, 2 to 1, by two lengths. Four favorites were defeated. Miller rode two winners. After the races Madden sold Servile to Willie Shields and the two-year-old toold Foil to George Odom. The summaries:

GOSSIP OF THE RACETRACK. Unless Martin Can Ride Roseben Will Not

icense to ride at Aqueduct, on Monday Rose en will not be a starter in the $10,000 Carter Handicap. Martin's application for a license was laid on the table by the Jockey Club stewards at a meeting on Friday, because of a desire to look into the causes for his suspension by the stewards at the Fair Grounds, New Orleans, several weeks ago. because of an alleged poor ride on the erratic selling plater Orly II. that Martin was set lown, but it appears that he was also denied he privilege of the track and his badge was also taken away. When Martin was sus-pended one of the New Orleans stewards in a letter to one of the jockey's friends in his city said that the boy had been set down only for the rest of the meeting because of unsatisfactory riding and that after that period e would be eligible to ride on any other track.

As the Jockey Club always recognizes the ings on the Western tracks, the stewards raings on the Western tracks, the stewards have decided to make an investigation. But as the Fair Grounds officials did not refer Martin's case to the Western Jockey Club, which would have been a matter of course if the boy had done wrong, it is believed that there is a misunderstanding somewhere. Meanwhile the Roseben people have decided that in view of the fact that the great Arrinter would be a strong public favorite next Monday it would be unfair to the patrons of racing to start him unless the regular. xi Monday it would be unfair to the patrons racing to start him unless the regular tible pockey could have the leg up. Nearly of the best riders have been engaged various starters in the big race, so that siner Weir and D. C. Johnson said yesterday at they did not care to take any chances, seben has worked so well for the Carter at if he goes to the post he is sure to have big following. He is a popular idol and the Martin up the combination would seem be invincible.

Those who saw Martin at New Orleans livertly after his suspension say that he seemed to be enjoying the privileges of the tack as usual and that the only apparent ause for his trouble with the track officials has his behavior. These men insisted yeserday that Martin was not guilty of criminal arong and that as soon as the Jockey Club ad learned the facts in the case the boy ould receive a license. "The committee encloses a request upon your as prevident of the University of the U special meeting of that club for the purpose designated in the call.

Preceding steps in what the protesters with the patriots of old term a war against taxation without representation began on December 19, when there was a new corporation formed in the A. K. C. under a charter taken in 1903. Delegates opposed to this change met at the Ashland House on January 3, and drew up a series of amendments to the A. K. C. constitution that, if adopted, would have restored the conditions existing prior to December 19. They were actuated by the belief that the club had been turned into a corporation in the interests of a clique, and that the vested rights of the delegates had been usurped and violated.

The amendments failed to pass at the annual meeting held on February 13, the largest in attendance in A. K. C. betory. The setback to the protesters was due, in their opinion, because the debating drifted into an arraignment of the methods of the incorporators. August Belmont, president of the A. K. C. was in the chair, and revealed an inclination to sustain the new corporation as legally sound. Although beaten for a time, the protesters have not ceased their efforts, and, fortified by legal advices, they have now issued an ultimatum. A statement of the differences issued by the Ashland House committee is in part!

Dissatisfaction among the members has ated in the call

"Dissatisfaction among the members has been growing for a number of years. This dissatisfaction has existed on the part of the principal specialty clubs and has been directed against a clique of non-representativindividuals who were able, by activity, by constant attendance at all meetings and by cultivating the good will of the paid officials of the club, to obtain a certain influence and power entirely out of proportion to the importance of the interests which they represented, or claimed to represent." So great had become this dissatisfaction during the last year that the disposition of these individuals from power had become assured and it was only a question of a comparatively short time before the members of the American Kennel Club would have brought about an entire reorganization of the various

governing committees

"Their impending removal from power was well known to the persons threatened and thereupon it becomes clear (from what subsequently happened) that they determined to take a desperate chance and by secretly making use of an old and expired charter, which had been obtained under a resolution passed some five years before, to so organize a new corporation, which should take over the property of the old club, as to practically perpetuate themselves in power.

"This they proceeded to do. At secret meetings a constitution was adopted by the incorporators of the new corporation, directors were elected for long terms, and the organization of the new corporation was so shaped as to practically turn over its entire management and control to these incorporators for a period of at least four years.

"The directors elected were thirty in number. Of these thirty, barely ten represented specialty clubs, for whose henefit the American Kennel Club was alone originally organized.

The remaining directors consisted of

and of the various secret meetings of the corporation were published, and thereupon, fo the first time, the members learned tha the first time, the members learned that they had transferred all their property to a corporation which had been organized not to perpetuate the aims and purposes of the club, but to secure to a favored few absolute control not only of its property but of its control not only of its property but of its management.

"The committee is of the opinion that none of the objectionable directors have, nor will they dare, to tender their resignations under circumstances which would permit a free and open campaign against their reelection. It is further the belief of the committee that these objectionable directors never could have been elected except by means of star chamber methods, and that they never can # be reelected at a representative meetins of the corporation when it is known beforehand that they have resigned. "Under all these circumstances the committee finally has determined that it is impossible to attempt to negotiate with the present management. While they believe that the president is actuated only by the best motives, nevertheless the committee also believes that he is unfortunately influenced by the very element which has all but disintegrated and ruined the club. "The committee have therefore addressed a communication to the president of the unincorporated club and have requested him to call a meeting of the delegates thereof for the purpose of appointing a committee to secure its incorporation." In the usual course President Belmont has affiteen days to prepare the call for a special meeting. BROOKLYNS' FIRST A BLANK. SHY OF BASE HITS AND SHUT OUT BY BOSTONS. COMMITTEE DENIES VALIDITY

Discontent within the American Kennel lub is reaching a critical stage. President seven club delegates to call a special meeting to form a complete reorganization or face a lawsuit. In the interests of harmony Presi ent Belmont had suggested that the directors resign in a body and that the club elect another board at the May meeting. This partial victory has not satisfied the protestors, who state in the petition. This reads:

The signers are J. E. De Mund, R. S. Eason, Clair Foster, John W. Britton II., and Lawrence M. D. Maguire of New York; F. H. Osgood, Boston, and J. Sargent Price, Philadelphia. Enclosed with the petition was this letter to President Belmont

House committee sees no reason why it should recede from the position it has taken from the first, namely, that the American Kennel Club must be legally incorporated and its position rendered unassailable. "As the committee has been advised by counsel, in which advice all the lawyers it has conferred with have concurred, the present American Kennel Club (incorporated) has no legal existence and may be successfully attacked at any time. The committee has also been advised that this unfortunate donment of the present so-called incorporated

"Your suggestion to the committee that you would use your best offices to obtain the resignations of the present directors and leave it to the club at the May meeting to designate their successors is—so far as it goes—gratifying to the members of the committee in view of their continued denunciation of the methods employed to secure the election of the present so-called board of directors.

"On April 2 Mr. Vredenburgh advised this committee that twenty resignations had been received, but he refused to state by whom they had been delivered.

successors to the directors resigning, since in all probability the majority of the directors who resign will be considered worthy of reelection by the committee. It is only in regard to the objectionable ones that the committee will enter into an active canvass, and this cannot be done until the receipt of their resignations has been announced.

"While the committee believes that you are actuated by motives of entire good faith, nevertheless your refusal to state the names evidence of bad faith.

"The committee encloses a request upon you, as president of the Unincorporated American Kennel Club, to forthwith call a special meeting of that club for the purpose out an entire reorganization of the various terning committees. Their impending removal from power was

The remaining directors consisted of delegates from show clubs, most of them small and insignificant and of no influence, and also certain specially elected directors who represented no interests whatsoever.

The constitution, which was secretly adopted in the same way in which the directors were secretly elected, was so draughted as to perpetuate in these directors and in the committees which they elected absolute power and control, which power was secured, as has been said, for a period of at least four years. least four years.
"A meeting of the delegates of the American Kennel Club was called for the purpose of transferring its property to this new corpora-

"The call was so worted and the statements at the meeting were of such a character as to lead the delegates to believe that the new corporation had been legally organized along the lines of the old club, that the aims and purposes of the eld club had been perpetuated and continued in the new corporation, and that the same control by the members was secured under the terms of the constitution. Believing this to be so and further believing that an incorporation of the club was a good thing, the delegates voted to transfer the property.

The locals secured the only tally in the first inning. Bates got a base on balls and Tenney put him on second with a pretty sacrifice. Beaumont's out at first put Bates on third and he scored on Howard's line drive to centre field. The locals had another great chance to score in the fifth inning, when Young startled the crowd with a fine single. Bates bunted safely, but Tenney in attempting to sacrifice forced Young at third. Tenney was forced by Beaumont and Howard flied to Maloney. Things looked squally for Boston in the eighth, when with one down Alperman hit to left for two bases. Butter was unequal to the occasion and hit to Brain, Alperman being run down between the bases. One of the features of the game was a great stop of Lumley's liner by Young in the fourth inning, resulting in a double play. Tenney played a fine game.

BEOOKLEN. The class for pairs of horses over 15 hands and not exceeding 15.2 hands was chiefly notable for the defeat of Hildred and Plym-mouth Champion, the team which Miss nily H. Bedford was recently reported to have purchased for $20,000. The winners re W. H. Harriman's team, made up of brown mare Laughing Water and the way gelding Chieftain. Mrs. Titus Blatis Sporting Life and Sporting Times, the yother pair to show in the class, were arded the third prize.

In the class for ladies' saddle horses Mrs. on Gerken's horses came in for two ribbons. In the class for ladies' saddle horses Mrs. John Gerken's horses came in for two ribbons. Her bay gelding Redwood, ridden by Miss C. Adelaide Doremus, went through his paces a fine style and took the blue ribbon, while Mayo, a fine chestnut mare, received special commendation and a white ribbon. The ded rosette went to W. H. Harriman's chestnut nare Corinne, while the same owner's Petro-eum took third place.

Judge Moore's fortunes met with a severe reversal in the double harness class, where two of his teams were beaten. W. H. Harriman's splendid team of bay geldings, Lord Burleigh and Lord Brook, received the first and George Watson's Empress and Emperor surprised everybody by taking second. Delight and Delightful, Judge Moore's black team, had to be satisfied with the yellow. The contest for the best trained saddle horse brought out some good animals that had learned all the fine points of backing and turning on command. The horses were shown at a walk, trot and canter and were then made to back, turn quickly while running and to stop. Mat S. Cohen's black gelding Castro and W. H. Harriman's Petroleum were easily superior to the others. The judges finally decided that Castro was entitled to the first award. Mrs. Charles F. Hubbs's Perhaps received the third prize.

Mrs. Emily H. Bedford came to the front again in the tandem class and with her splendid black pair, Donner and Blitzen, took the first prize. The horses showed in splendid form. In quality, style and all round action the horses did brilliantly. Judge Moore's Sunshine and Perfection were also in good Game Postponed. Sunshine and Perfection were also in good shape. The awards:

FOOTBALL HANGS FIRE. Difficulty Over Eligibility of Men Who

Would Play at Columbia The meeting which was held at Columbia University in which the student football mmittee and football players appeared before the university committee on athletics in an effort to get that committee to recom-mend the resumption of the game of football was not as productive of results as had been hoped. While the football committee has no means lost hope of regaining the game, the process may be somewhat slower than by no means lost hope of regaining the game, the process may be somewhat slower than was at first expected. As a whole the athletic committee has refused to commit itself as to what policy it would pursue, although, as has been known for a long time, a majority of the individual members favor the resumption of football.

The principal difficulty is over the new eligibility rules. It was found that several of the men who appeared at the meeting and expressed a desire to play football next year stood no chance under the present arrangement of making themselves eligible even if the game were restored. This was frue largely because of the rule making those who have any entrance conditions ineligible for Columbia teams. It was at once suggested that it he committee change their decision so that it need not apply to those students who were in college before the rule was passed. The committee replied that it had no power to do this because the decision had been made by the university council. The aim now will be to make those students who are harred from athletics under this rule eligible, as without them there will not be what the committee considers a sufficient number of men who desire to play to make the restoration of the game desirable.

Archibald Graham, the New Jersey cham pion, has gone to Cuba on a pleasure trip and he expects to be absent about a month. Although Graham is now a resident of this city, he continues his membership in the North Jersey Country Club.

The Cakland Golf Club has made Walter J. Travis an honorary member. An active season is planned by the club, but it is likely that the proposed open tournament will be postponed until next year, as the new nine holes will then be in better shape.

Boston, April 12.-Boston proved the victor in the opening game of the season this afternoon, Brooklyn being shut out 1 to 6 in a fast game. Considering the cold weather. President Dovey was presented with a huge floral horseshoe when the game began. Young, the husky southpaw, proved a sumbling block to the hard hitting visitors allowing but three scattered hits during the nine innings. Stricklett was almost equally as effective, the home team having but six safe drives to their credit. Ritchey and Beaumont proved big acquisitions to the local team, the former playing an unusually brilliant game. Lewis and Bridwell, the

TENNIS HONORS TO NEWPORT.

WOMEN PLAYERS TAKE FINALS IN INDOOR TOURNEY.

Mrs. Barger-Wallach Wins in Singles - With Miss Nora Iselin as Partner She Captures Doubles, Too-Good Play in the Two Intercity Competitions Yesterday Newport was victorious in the final rounds

both the singles and doubles play for women in the indoor tennis tournament in the St. Nicholas Rink yesterday. Mrs. Barger-Wallach won her match in singles from Miss Emily Scott and later partnered with Miss Nora Iselin carried off the honors in the doubles. The defeated pair in this were the Misses Greene of Philadelphia. The play was of very good quality and the gallery was highly interested throughout. It was in the early afternoon that Mrs. Barger-Wallach met Miss Scott in the final of the intercity singles. Miss Scott represented New York. The competition was decided in two sets, both going to dence in games. The first set was a hard match, Mrs. Barger-Wallach not being on her usual steady game. She had enough in reserve however, to carry away the first instalment by 8-6. The second set was curious in its erratic play. Mrs. Barger-Wallach won the first game on her service and then, greatly to the surprise of the gallery, lost five straight games to Miss Scott. The latter played very keen tennis. With the score 5 to 1 against her the chance of the runner up in the national championship looked anything but good. It appeared to be likely that she would have to give up this set and that a third would be necessary. Barger-Wallach, however, steaded down completely. Her placing game, always a feature of her work, was in evidence. Her service, never too powerful, was well manservice, never too powerful, was well managed, and Miss Scott could not stand against the combination of headwork. The score turned against the New York woman and she lost point after point. Mrs. Barger-Wallach caused not a little surprise when she took four straight games and brought the match to 5 all. Keeping up her speed, she ran out the two remaining games and with them the set and match, at 7-5.

Directly afterward the final in the intercity doubles was put on. Mrs. Barger-Wallach city appear to be greatly tired by her Directly afterward the final in the intercity doubles was put on. Mrs. Barger-Wallach did not appear to be greatly tired by her exertions, her game being of a kind which saves the player a great deal of moving about. Opposed to her and Miss Iselin, her partner, were two very active players. The Misses Greene. Marjorie and Phyllis, covered a great deal of court and, it appeared, spent too much energy in getting about. They had several good strokes and at times played a game which was unbeatable. Miss Iselin played unevenly, but was at times very elever at the net. She made many points, especially in the second set, by slamming through the middle court, left uncovered by the Greene sisters.

Part of the credit for opening up the de-ence of the Philadelphians was due to Mrs. Sarger-Wallach, whose placing was so well udged that the defending pair had no rejudged that the defending pair had no recourse but to go to opposite corners to return the balls. Miss iselin's occasional unstead incomes was more than counterbalanced by the coolness of her partner. Mrs. Barger-Wallach serves what appears to be a very easy ball, hitting it underhand instead of using the orthodox overhead smash. Furthermore, her backhand is not at all strong, owing, it is said, to incorrect grip on the racquet handle. The first set was a persistent struggle, in which the Philadelphian were always on the alert for openings for points. It was, to judge from the score, much better played than the second set, although this was not actually the case. The Newport pair carried off the victory by 8-6 in the first set and wound up by taking the second set at 6-1, running out two games after the score was Theodore R. Peil and William A. Larned, the latter ex-champion of the United States, played a practice set in preparation for the mixed doubles, which begin to-day. Six teams have been entered for this. They are: Miss Eleanora Sears and W. A. Larned, Miss Marion Fenno and G. L. Wrenn, Jr. Miss Jean Reid and T. R. Peil, Miss North Iselin and B. C.
